87th Annual Honors Convocation

Hill Auditorium | March 21, 2010
This year marks the 87th Honors Convocation held at the University of Michigan since the first was instituted on May 13, 1924, by President Marion LeRoy Burton. On these occasions the University publicly recognizes and commends the undergraduate students in its schools and colleges who have earned distinguished academic records or have excelled as leaders in the community. It is highly appropriate that those students be honored who have most clearly and effectively demonstrated academic excellence, dynamic leadership, and inspirational volunteerism. The Honors Convocation takes rank with the Commencement Exercises among the important ceremonies of the University year.

The names of the students who are honored for outstanding achievement this year appear in this program. They include all students who have earned University Honors in both Winter 2009 and Fall 2009, all seniors who have earned University Honors in either Winter 2009 or Fall 2009 and recipients of the William J. Branstrom Freshman Prize. First year undergraduate students whose academic achievement during their first semester on campus places them in the upper five percent of their college class are awarded the William J. Branstrom Freshman Prize.

James B. Angell Scholars are given a special place in the program. In addition, the Student Speaker is recognized individually for exemplary contributions to the University community.

To all honored students, and to their parents, the University extends its hearty congratulations.
Honored Students
Honored Faculty
Faculty Colleagues and Friends of the University

It is a pleasure to welcome you to the 87th University of Michigan Honors Convocation. On behalf of the academic leaders on the Ann Arbor, Dearborn, and Flint campuses, I thank you for joining us today.

The Honors Convocation is an important University tradition. It provides us with the opportunity to recognize and celebrate the outstanding academic achievements of undergraduate students from all three of our campuses.

Today we honor students whose achievements exemplify the University's commitment to academic excellence, committed and creative leadership, and thoughtful service. These students have demonstrated a passion for learning – challenging themselves and their teachers with tough questions and innovative ideas that stretch the boundaries of knowledge and open new pathways for exploration.

The University's mission statement clearly states our commitment to “developing leaders who will challenge the present and enrich the future.” The students we honor today give life to that commitment through their purposeful engagement with the world.

Today we also honor a group of distinguished faculty members who have joined us for this ceremony. Recently recognized by the University for their outstanding teaching and scholarship, they represent the many individuals in our community who inspire, challenge, and support our students.

As we congratulate our students, we also want to recognize, with deep appreciation, the parents, family members, and friends who have nurtured and supported these remarkable young people. The University of Michigan shares the pride you feel in their accomplishments. With you, we look forward to the contributions they will make to the future.

Congratulations and Welcome!

Teresa A. Sullivan

Honors Convocation, March 21, 2010

“If Wishes Were Horses… Do We Dare Bet on Innovation?”
While the theme for this year’s event could be called “What’s Next?”, our particular focus is on the assumptions that are necessary to answer that question. Those who extrapolate from current economic, environmental, and political trends paint a bleak picture of our prospects for the future. Yet innovation has often changed the direction of history. Today’s speakers will offer their perspectives on envisioning the future.

The University of Michigan wishes to thank Elizabeth Clarno and Tracey Romanow, American Sign Language Interpreters, for their important service during this program. In addition, a viewing area equipped with real-time captioning is designated on the main floor. Please ask a faculty marshal if you need assistance locating this area.
Elizabeth Bicknell Golightly
Junior, College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Libby Golightly, who came to the University of Michigan from Grosse Pointe, is a junior who is majoring in Political Science in the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts, where she is also pursuing a minor in the Program in the Environment. She is engaged in numerous academic and professional activities, with responsibilities as a resident advisor at the university and as a language teacher of third-grade students in the Ann Arbor Languages Partnership. She has also been active in the political community, working as an intern and volunteer for the 2008 election of United States Senator Carl Levin, and participating in the U-M College Democrats organization. For outstanding performance in her coursework, she has earned the designation of Angell Scholar in multiple semesters and has been awarded University Honors in the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts. Additionally, she holds the distinction of being a Regents Scholarship Student.

James Paul Holloway
*Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of Nuclear Engineering and Radiological Sciences
Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education
College of Engineering*

Professor Holloway was named a Thurnau Professor in 2007, in recognition of his excellence in and dedication to undergraduate education, particularly for his commitment to being both demanding and encouraging. He earned B.S. and M.S. degrees in nuclear engineering at the University of Illinois, followed by a Ph.D. in engineering physics at the University of Virginia. He came to the University of Michigan as an assistant professor in 1990, and has built his professional career in an array of interconnected fields, including neutron and photon transport theory, nuclear reactor physics and control, mathematical analysis of engineering problems, and computational physics and engineering. At the University of Michigan, he has taught thousands of students in his undergraduate Introduction to Computers and Programming, while also directing advanced graduate courses in specialized topics such as radiation shielding. Professor Holloway’s wide-ranging publications are notable for their insight and discovery, and he is the recipient of numerous professional and university honors. Among his many awards, his extensive recognition includes the National Science Foundation Young Investigator Award (1993-98), the Teaching Excellence Award of the College of Engineering (2000), the Nuclear Engineering & Radiological Sciences Outstanding Achievement Award (2004), and the Nuclear Engineering & Radiological Sciences Alpha Nu Sigma Faculty Teaching Award (2004), for which he was selected by students in the College of Engineering. With his extensive supervision of graduate students and dissertations, he is playing a major role in creating the next generation of scientists and engineers in nuclear engineering and radiological sciences. Recently, he also conducted research into and compiled a captivating biographical portrait of the university benefactor Arthur Frederick Thurnau (1882-1979), whose gifts to the University of Michigan resulted in the ongoing legacy of Thurnau Professors, faculty members who are recognized for their inspiring brilliance in undergraduate teaching.
RHODES, MARSHALL, AND MITCHELL SCHOLARSHIPS

Rhodes Scholarships and Marshall Scholarships are among the world’s most prestigious academic awards for graduate students. Since the estate of British philanthropist Cecil John Rhodes established Rhodes Scholarships in 1904, twenty-six University of Michigan alumni have studied as Rhodes Scholars at Oxford University. Thirty-two Americans are named Rhodes Scholars each year. International students may apply to or be nominated by 13 other jurisdictions designated by the Rhodes Trust. Students are nominated and appointed based on literary and scholastic attainments; energy to use talents to the fullest; truth, courage, devotion to duty, unselfishness, and sympathy for and protection of the weak; and moral force of character, interest in one's fellow human beings, and the instinct to lead.

Marshall Scholarships, founded by an Act of Parliament in 1953, finance opportunities for young American scholars of high ability to study in the United Kingdom. The scholarship commemorates the humane ideals of the European Recovery Program (Marshall Plan) and funds two years of study. At least forty Marshall Scholarships are awarded annually to American students who demonstrate maturity, self-reliance, and self-discipline. Fourteen University of Michigan students have been named Marshall Scholars.

In 1999, the George J. Mitchell Scholarships were established for American university students. This third competitive national scholarship program, supported by the Irish and British governments and other benefactors, honors former Senator George J. Mitchell for his contributions to the Northern Ireland peace process. The prestigious award allows Americans to pursue one year of post-graduate study in Ireland and Northern Ireland. Up to twelve George J. Mitchell Scholarships are awarded annually to students who have shown both academic distinction and the potential for leadership.

We proudly recognize the following students who were endorsed by the University of Michigan this year:

The Thurnau Professorships were established in 1988 by a bequest from Arthur F. Thurnau to recognize and reward faculty for outstanding contributions to undergraduate education. The professorships honor tenured faculty members who, through their commitment and investment in undergraduate teaching, have had a positive impact on the intellectual development and lives of students.

Thurnau Professors receive $20,000 grants to support activities that enhance teaching. It is this important recognition for faculty that Arthur F. Thurnau so generously provided for and that the University of Michigan celebrates.

The University is pleased to recognize this year’s Thurnau Professors.
Joel D. Blum
Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
John D. MacArthur Professor of Geological Sciences
Professor of Geological Sciences
Professor of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

As one colleague observed, Professor Blum “truly believes that earth science education in our department should be a life changing experience for undergraduate students, and he has a well-thought-out plan” for achieving this goal. By emphasizing experiential and problem-based learning, both on campus and in field settings, he successfully engages students at all levels, majors and non-majors, in rigorous scientific inquiry. According to one student, Professor Blum “has opened up the world of science to me.” As department chair and director of the university’s field station in Jackson, Wyoming, Professor Blum expanded the course offerings at Camp Davis to reflect a wider range of disciplines, developed new interdisciplinary courses, and modernized the site’s facilities. He also took advantage of the site as an opportunity for students to apply their knowledge to solve concrete and timely problems, and design group projects in which students propose models for making the camp a self-sustaining energy system. These efforts have led to a significant increase in student participation in the programs. Professor Blum’s generous mentoring of students, both in advising individualized projects and in less formal capacities, has also had a profound impact on attracting, inspiring, and retaining underrepresented populations in the sciences.

Anne Ruggles Gere
Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Gertrude Buck Collegiate Professor of Education
Professor of Education
School of Education
Professor of English Language and Literature
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

The consummate “teacher-scholar,” Professor Gere skillfully blends “using theory to improve practice and using practice as a site to incubate and develop theory.” In the School of Education she designed and taught highly subscribed courses that engage students in appreciating the intersection between educational issues and social justice through first-hand data collection, textual analysis, and ethnographic field work. She has extended her commitment to multicultural education by developing programs such as Teachers for Tomorrow, which prepare teachers to work in under-resourced schools. As director of the Sweetland Writing Center, Professor Gere launched a major research program involving longitudinal studies of student writing, and she revised the process by which students are placed into first-year writing courses. In addition, she undertook a curriculum redesign, including the introduction of “New Media Writing,” which focuses on writing in digital environments such as blogs, podcasts, and websites. Colleagues and students remark on the immense personal attention Professor Gere devotes to helping her students improve their writing, especially in how she designs course assignments and comments extensively on essay drafts. She is noted as an enduring mentor who continues to affect students long after they have left the classroom and even the university. As one student wrote, “Professor Gere’s class taught me skills that I use in all of my classes. I learned to love writing and enjoyed learning by writing.”
Louis E. Loeb
Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of Philosophy
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

With a career spanning four decades, Professor Loeb has consistently promoted a “culture of education” within the Philosophy Department, both as a “legendary lecturer” and as the department chair. He has been recognized with numerous teaching awards at both the university and college levels. The “kind of instructor students never forget,” Professor Loeb possesses a remarkable ability to present abstruse and complex philosophical questions in concrete ways with great humor and verve. His contagious enthusiasm and abiding intellectual curiosity inspire students to pursue and debate issues outside of class. As one graduate student who taught with him marveled, “He jumps, he shouts, he embodies philosophy in front of the students. They don’t just see how to do philosophy, they witness someone who loves it and breathes it.” Colleagues credit Professor Loeb’s “masterful” and “brilliant” instruction in highly subscribed gateway courses, for the large numbers of concentrators and minors in the department. He also excels in generating conversations in smaller discussion-oriented settings, ensuring that “all opinions were fairly discussed and evaluated.” As the department chair, Professor Loeb oversaw a major reorganization of the undergraduate curriculum and an equally sizable overhaul of the graduate program. In testament to his immeasurable contributions to the department and the university, one former student implored, “Don’t let him retire ever.”

Robin M. Queen
Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Associate Professor of Linguistics
Associate Professor of Germanic Languages and Literatures
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

An inventive adopter of pedagogical technologies and inspiring mentor and colleague, Professor Queen exhibits a “drive to make learning linguistics accessible to all students.” Of her use of blogs, online opinion polls, and video clips from popular media sources to engage students in relating sociolinguistics to their own lives, a colleague observed, “Clearly, her use of technology transforms her courses.” In courses she has designed, such as “Language and the Mass Media” and “Language and Discrimination,” Professor Queen fosters the development of multiple perspectives and commitment to diversity. She successfully initiates and sustains complex and often emotionally charged conversations about how people use language as a means of social statement, affiliation, and, sometimes, conflict. Students report that Professor Queen’s approach to these courses shapes the way they view and interact with the world. Her engagement with multicultural issues extends beyond the classroom to the curricular level, where Professor Queen has been instrumental in developing a new sub-concentration on “Linguistics for a Multicultural World” and has been actively involved in initiatives to assess the effectiveness of new teaching technologies. She is also a generous and highly sought-after mentor, advising student research projects on an impressive range of topics. A former honors advisee recalled, “That she gave me the tools I needed to take authorship of my own education marks Dr. Queen as both a mentor and an educator.”
Edward West
Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of Art
School of Art and Design

Professor West is lauded as a “tireless champion of university arts education.” Indeed, his contributions to the students and the curriculum at the School of Art and Design are immense. He launched curricular innovations such as reconceptualizing required core courses, implementing a fellowship program that invited emergent artists to campus, and increasing opportunities for students to study abroad. And he transformed the school’s physical facilities to include a center for print media, a photography studio, and a gallery for undergraduates to benefit from graduate students’ work. Present and former students note his honesty, generosity, and compassion in providing feedback on their work and in serving as an ongoing mentor for their studies. They also remark on his acute insight and productive criticism, appreciating how he asks “difficult and pointed questions ... the kind of questions that make [one] face the complicated problems artists encounter as they process their ideas and create work.” Professor West demonstrates a genuine and deep concern for creating an inclusive learning environment, treating his students fully as peers and tackling diverse topics in his courses, from the politics of representation in photography to addressing issues of race and ethnicity. The commitment to interdisciplinarity that shapes his artistic work extends to his pedagogy, as he urges students to think across artistic media and also to draw on theories and perspectives from other fields in order to, in the words of one student, “foster an understanding of a connected universe.”

The colorful gowns and hoods worn by faculty members at commencement and other academic ceremonies represent the degrees, disciplines, and alma maters of the wearers. The American academic costume tradition, imported from England, dates to Colonial days.

GOWNS
Bachelor’s or master’s degree gowns traditionally are black, as are many doctoral gowns in the United States. Some universities prescribe that their graduates wear gowns of another solid color such as blue, crimson, or green. Gowns differ in sleeve cut and trim. For example, the bachelor’s gown has long, pointed sleeves while the master’s gown has oblong sleeves. Doctoral gowns, with their distinctive bell-shaped sleeves, feature velvet panels down the front and around the neck, as well as crossbars of velvet on the sleeves. Colored trim denotes the field or discipline in which the degree was earned. Usually only a single degree from one institution is indicated by a garment. If more than one degree is held, the gown and hood of the higher or highest degree usually are worn.

HOODS
The hood most precisely describes the wearer’s level of degree earned, the major field of learning, and the alma mater. The level of the degree held is indicated by the hood’s shape and size and the width of its velvet or velveteen trimming. The bachelor’s, master’s, and doctor’s hoods are 36 inches, 42 inches, and 48 inches long, respectively. The velvet trim is two, three, and five inches wide, with the narrowest being for the bachelor’s hood and the widest for the doctor’s hood. The color of trim on the hood, as on the gown, identifies the major field of learning in which the degree was awarded. The hood is lined with the official colors of the college or university conferring the degree.

CAPS
Caps vary in style from the traditional black mortarboard to eight-, six-, and four-corner tambs, and Elizabethan-style caps. The mortarboard may be of any appropriate material, such as cotton, poplin, rayon, or silk, to match the gown. Velvet is reserved for holders of doctorates.

ACADEMIC COLORS
The colors of the various disciplines are as follows:

Architecture and Urban Planning
- blue violet

Business Administration
- drab

Dentistry
- lilac

Education
- light blue

Engineering
- orange

Fine Arts
- brown

Information
- lemon

Kinesiology

The University’s mace, a symbol of authority, is carried at the head of academic processions on such important ceremonial occasions as commencements, convocations, and inaugurations. The mace being used today was given to the University in 1968 by the Senior Board, representing all the undergraduate schools and colleges. Crafted of red oak and trimmed with silver, the mace features the seals of the University and of the State of Michigan. Also engraved on the mace are the names of the University Presidents.
JAMES B. ANGELL SCHOLARS

Students who achieve an all “A” record for two or more consecutive terms are recognized as James B. Angell Scholars. The student must have taken a minimum of 14 credit hours each term, including at least 12 graded credits. Following each scholar’s name is the number of consecutive terms the student has had an all “A” record.

Statement on Freedom of Speech and Artistic Expression

Thank you for attending this program. The University of Michigan strives to create a truly open forum, one in which diverse opinions can be expressed and heard.

It is the right of members of the University community, speakers, artists, and other invited guests to express their views and opinions at the University. We will protect the right of individuals to speak or perform, and the rights of those members of the University community who wish to hear and communicate with an invited speaker or artist.

Protesters also have a right to express their opposition to a speaker in appropriate ways, both within the confines of this building and outside the facility. However, protesters must not interfere unduly with communication between a speaker or artist and members of the audience.

If the hosts of this event or University representatives believe that protesters are interfering unduly with a speaker or performer’s freedom of expression, those protesters will be warned. If the warnings are not heeded and the interference continues, then the individuals responsible may be removed from the building.

We reaffirm these policies in order to most fully protect the rights of free expression for speakers, performers, and protesters alike, as set forth by our Civil Liberties Board in our Student Handbook, and in accordance with the U-M Standard Practice Guide; Regents’ Ordinance Article XII, Section 1; and state statutes.

Nondiscrimination Policy

The University of Michigan, as an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action. The University of Michigan is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, religion, height, weight, or veteran status in employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions. Inquiries or complaints may be addressed to the Senior Director for Institutional Equity, and Title IX/Section 504/ADA Coordinator, Office of Institutional Equity, 2072 Administrative Services Building, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109-1432, 734-763-0235, TTY 734-647-1388. For other University of Michigan information call 734-764-1817.
The Yellow and Blue

Sing to the colors that float in the light;
Hurrah for the Yellow and Blue!

Yellow the stars as they ride thro’ the night,
And reel in a rollicking crew;

Yellow the fields where ripens the grain,
And Yellow the moon on the harvest wain;

Hail!

Hail to the colors that float in the light;
Hurrah for the Yellow and Blue!
