

89TH HONORS CONVOCATION

HILL AUDITORIUM | MARCH 18, 2012

This year marks the 89th Honors Convocation held at the University of Michigan since the first was instituted on May 13, 1924, by President Marion LeRoy Burton. On these occasions the University publicly recognizes and commends the undergraduate students in its schools and colleges who have earned distinguished academic records or have excelled as leaders in the community. It is highly appropriate that those students be honored who have most clearly and effectively demonstrated academic excellence, dynamic leadership, and inspirational volunteerism. The Honors Convocation takes rank with the Commencement Exercises among the important ceremonies of the University year.

The names of the students who are honored for outstanding achievement this year appear in this program. They include all students who have earned University Honors in both Winter 2011 and Fall 2011, plus all seniors who have earned University Honors in either Winter 2011 or Fall 2011. The William J. Branstrom Freshman Prize recipients are listed, as well—recognizing first year undergraduate students whose academic achievement during their first semester on campus place them in the upper five percent of their school or college class. James B. Angell Scholars—students who receive all “A” grades over consecutive terms—are given a special place in the program. In addition, the Student Speaker is recognized individually for exemplary contributions to the University community.

To all honored students, and to their parents, the University extends its hearty congratulations.

Honored Students
Honored Faculty
Faculty Colleagues and Friends of the University

It is a pleasure to welcome you to the 89th University of Michigan Honors Convocation. On behalf of the academic leaders on the Ann Arbor, Dearborn, and Flint campuses, I thank you for joining us today.

The Honors Convocation provides us with the opportunity to recognize and celebrate the outstanding academic achievements of undergraduate students from all three of our campuses. It is one of my favorite events each year and has become an important University tradition.

Today we honor students who exemplify academic excellence, committed and creative leadership, and thoughtful service—all core values of the University. These students have demonstrated a passion for learning—challenging themselves and their teachers with tough questions and innovative ideas that stretch the boundaries of knowledge and open new pathways for exploration.

The University's mission states our commitment to “developing leaders who will challenge the present and enrich the future.” The students we honor today give life to that commitment through their purposeful engagement with the world.

Today we also honor a group of distinguished faculty members who have joined us for this ceremony. Recently recognized by the University for their outstanding teaching and scholarship, they represent the many individuals in our community who inspire, challenge, and support our students.

As we congratulate our students, we also recognize, with deep appreciation, the parents, family members, and friends who have nurtured and supported these remarkable students. The University of Michigan shares the pride you feel in their accomplishments. With you, we look forward to the contributions they will make to the future.

Congratulations and Welcome!

Professor Rabe, a member of the University of Michigan faculty since 1985, was named a Thurnau Professor in 2011 in recognition of his teaching excellence and commitment to enhancing undergraduate academic opportunities. He earned his bachelor's degree from Carthage College and his master's degree and doctorate from the University of Chicago. Professor Rabe played a central role in the 2002 development of the Program in the Environment, one of the University's fastest growing undergraduate programs, and served as its director. He is a non-resident senior fellow in the Governance Studies Program at the Brookings Institution and a fellow at the National Academy of Public Administration. He currently is researching energy development and taxation policies in the United States and Canada. In July, he will become the director of the Center for Local, State, and Urban Policy at the Ford School.

In 2006, Professor Rabe became the first social scientist to receive the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Climate Protection Award, which recognized his contributions to scholarship and policymaking. He has received three research awards from the American Political Science Association, including the 2007 Daniel Elazar Award for Career Contributions to the Study of Federalism. He has received outstanding teaching awards from the School of Public Health, College of Literature, Science, and the Arts, and the Program in the Environment. Through his teaching and scholarship, Professor Rabe inspires students, policymakers, and the public to think critically about the role of public policy in environmental protection.

RHODES, MARSHALL, MITCHELL, AND CHURCHILL SCHOLARSHIPS

Rhodes Scholarships and Marshall Scholarships are among the world's most prestigious academic awards for graduate students. Since the estate of British philanthropist Cecil John Rhodes established Rhodes Scholarships in 1904, 26 University of Michigan alumni have studied as Rhodes Scholars at Oxford University. Thirty-two Americans are named Rhodes Scholars each year. International students may apply to or be nominated by 13 other jurisdictions designated by the Rhodes Trust.

Marshall Scholarships, founded by an Act of Parliament in 1953, finance opportunities for young American scholars of high ability to study in the United Kingdom. The scholarship commemorates the humane ideals of the European Recovery Program (Marshall Plan) and funds one or two years of study. At least 40 Marshall Scholarships are awarded annually to American students who demonstrate maturity, self-reliance, and self-discipline. Alex Carney, who has won a Marshall Scholarship for study at Oxford and Cambridge starting next fall, will be the University of Michigan's fifteenth Marshall Scholar.

In 1999, the George J. Mitchell Scholarships were established for American university students. This third competitive national scholarship program, supported by the Irish and British governments and other benefactors, honors former Senator George J. Mitchell for his contributions to the Northern Ireland peace process. The prestigious award allows Americans to pursue one year of post-graduate study in Ireland and Northern Ireland. Up to 12 George J. Mitchell Scholarships are awarded annually to students who have shown both academic distinction and the potential for leadership.

The Churchill Scholarship provides high-achieving U.S. citizens with funding for a single year of graduate work in math, science, or engineering at Churchill College, Cambridge. Only about 14 scholarships are awarded annually.

We proudly recognize the following students who were endorsed by the University of Michigan this year:

2012 THURNAU PROFESSORS

The Thurnau Professorships were established in 1988 to recognize and reward faculty for outstanding contributions to undergraduate education. The professorships honor tenured faculty members who, through their commitment and investment in undergraduate teaching, have had a positive impact on the intellectual development and lives of students.

Arthur F. Thurnau, for whom the Thurnau Professorship is named, attended the University of Michigan from fall of 1902 until spring of 1904. He studied a liberal arts curriculum, but he did not graduate. This was not uncommon for the time, and although his three brothers also attended the University of Michigan, only one of them graduated. In his two years here, Arthur completed 58 credits of French, German, History, English, Rhetoric, Politics, and Economics. He also was a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity and sang in the Freshmen Glee Club.

Arthur later returned to Chicago, and worked as an “ad man,” selling advertising space in various magazines and newspapers. In this role, he eventually rose to the position of vice president and western manager for the firm Paul Block, Inc. He was actively involved in U-M alumni events in Chicago, even trying to arrange a football game between the Wolverines and the University of Chicago Maroons during that period of time when Chicago was part of the Big 10 Conference and Michigan was not. He also put his organizational talents to work during World War II by creating events to encourage the sale of government bonds.

Arthur Thurnau’s generosity to the University of Michigan began in 1966, and continued through the rest of his life. Upon his death in 1979, his estate created the Thurnau Charitable Trust to support the University of Michigan. Since 1988, these funds have been used to support the Thurnau Professorships. Thurnau Professors receive $20,000 grants to support activities that enhance teaching. It is this important recognition for faculty that Arthur F. Thurnau so generously provided for and that the University of Michigan celebrates.

The University is pleased to recognize this year’s Thurnau Professors.

Joseph L. Bull

*Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Associate Professor of Biomedical Engineering
College of Engineering*

Through both teaching and administrative positions, Professor Bull has been a champion of undergraduate education in biomedical engineering for the past 10 years. He is regarded as one of the most passionate and caring instructors in the department. He infuses his courses with project-based learning experiences, and students praise his ability to break down difficult concepts into manageable parts. As one student describes, “He is patient and attentive to the students—questions are always addressed, and students never leave a lecture frustrated with a topic.” In addition, Professor Bull has played an integral role in the development of the undergraduate program in biomedical engineering. His contributions began in the first year of the undergraduate studies program when he designed “Introduction of Biofluid Mechanics,” a course now viewed as a cornerstone of the undergraduate curriculum. Later, as the associate chair and director of undergraduate studies in Biomedical Engineering, Professor Bull further developed the program, encouraging other faculty members to incorporate experiential learning into their courses and assuming a leadership role in the college’s recent reaccreditation process. In recognition of these efforts, he received the College of Engineering’s John F. Ullrich Education Excellence Award. In describing the significance of Professor Bull’s work on teaching and learning in the department, the chair of biomedical engineering says, “Simply put, Joe has had a hand in nearly every activity that impacts our current and future undergraduate program.”

Michael L. Haithcock

*Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of Music
School of Music, Theatre & Dance*

As director of bands and conductor of the University of Michigan Symphony Band, Professor Haithcock has a remarkable impact on students at the School of Music, Theatre & Dance through his dedicated teaching and transformative leadership. He works tirelessly to provide unique learning experiences and develop strong relationships with students, attending each student’s individual recital and writing over 100 recommendation letters each year. According to students, Professor Haithcock “redefines what it means to be conscientious, organized, and professional,” creating “a feeling of shared responsibility in which the students are inspired to be the best they can be.” Professor Haithcock frequently commissions new compositions so his students gain experience working with living composers and debuting new pieces. These performances are often followed by intensive recording sessions resulting in six commercial recordings by the Symphony Band over the past 10 years. In addition, Professor Haithcock seeks out opportunities for his students to perform in major venues across the world, including Carnegie Hall in New York City, the Walt Disney Concert Hall in Los Angeles, and, most recently, in venues throughout China. In preparation for this most recent tour, he organized a seminar series on Chinese history and culture for participating students, led required rehearsals, and designed an itinerary that balanced performances with educational excursions to significant cultural sites. The dean of the School of Music, Theatre & Dance has described Professor Haithcock’s work as “teaching as total student advocacy, as complete concern for the development of the student—intellectually, artistically, professionally, and personally.”

Sadashi Inuzuka

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of Art

School of Art and Design

Professor Inuzuka has been a pioneer in the design and implementation of community engagement courses in the School of Art and Design, “providing valuable experiences for students and a model for his colleagues in integrating education and society.” For over a decade, Professor Inuzuka has established and nurtured relationships with community organizations to create courses that enable students to see first-hand the role that art can play in social change. His seminars and workshops, “The Many Ways of Seeing and Touching the Spirit,” pair U-M students with visually impaired or blind youth and adults to create ceramic pieces. His course, “Considering the Future of the Great Lakes,” encourages students to use art to explore environmental issues. Through each of these experiences, students develop “communication skills, a reflection on the role of art-making in other people’s lives, and an appreciation of alternate modes of perception.” Within these courses, Professor Inuzuka expresses a deep passion for his students, respecting each student’s unique approach to working with the medium and gently guiding students in their artistic exploration. Students recognize this genuine concern for their personal and artistic development and consider Professor Inuzuka to be one of the most influential faculty members of their collegiate careers. As one colleague writes, “He is a warm and caring humanist who regards each student and colleague as special and encourages each to be a better human being, artist, and citizen.”

Bradford G. Orr

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of Physics

College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Professor Orr’s excellent teaching and impressive record of curricular innovation within the Department of Physics has earned numerous teaching awards including the LSA Excellence in Education Award, the Lockwood Distinguished Instructor Award, and the 2010 Provost’s Teaching Innovation Prize. His creativity and commitment to the improvement of undergraduate education began in 1993 with the creation of a course entitled “Everyday Physics,” an introductory course that uses authentic, experiential learning to make physics accessible to all students. This course is now the most popular within the department, and students enthusiastically promote its influence on their academic careers. As one student exclaimed, “I can definitely say I learned more in this class than the rest of the science classes I’ve ever taken—combined!” Later on, as chair of the department, Professor Orr initiated a comprehensive overhaul of the introductory Honors Program course sequence, integrating computational methods and doubling enrollment. Colleagues agree that the new content “gets students analyzing the world computationally from the beginning of their first class,” a critical element of a successful physics program. Professor Orr has also assumed leadership roles in the development of academic support programs including the Learning Assistant Program, a peer educator program for large lecture courses, and E2Coach, an electronic advising system for students at risk of failing introductory coursework. Professor Orr’s passion for undergraduate education extends to students of all backgrounds and preparation levels, and he has been “an outstanding teacher of physics and a tireless mentor at all levels for over two decades at Michigan.”

Brian Porter-Szűcs

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of History

College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Professor Porter-Szűcs is described by colleagues as “one of the history department’s most committed, conscientious, innovative, and successful teachers.” Students and faculty alike praise him for his dedication to students and his efforts to improve the department’s undergraduate program. Over the last 15 years, Professor Porter-Szűcs has taught the department’s introductory survey courses and designed several courses within his areas of expertise, including the history of Poland and the history of Catholicism. He has been a pioneer in the use of technology in the classroom and has served as a mentor to colleagues who also wish to incorporate new media, blogs, and student response systems into their courses. Known for his exemplary teaching throughout the department, Professor Porter-Szűcs was asked to chair the Undergraduate Curriculum Working Group last winter to revamp the undergraduate history program. Under his leadership, the group developed a new advising system, created a searchable course that identifies thematic clusters for undergraduate study, and designed two new introductory courses in response to student feedback. While each of these curricular innovations has dramatically improved undergraduate education within the department, Professor Porter-Szűcs’ most significant legacy may be his individual interactions with students. Former students provide countless examples of the ways in which he supported their intellectual curiosity and extended himself for their benefit. “Even as his undergraduate advisee, a 20-year old novice, I always felt like he was invested in me, that I had something to contribute, and that my career was something we would build together.”

Steven J. Skerlos

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering

College of Engineering

For the past decade, Professor Skerlos has dedicated time, energy, and creativity to undergraduate learning both within and outside the classroom. Under his leadership, the capstone design course in mechanical engineering has consistently received the highest student ratings of any required course within the department. According to a student who took the course, “Dr. Skerlos exhibited a remarkable ability to connect with the students and to cater his communication and teaching style to each of us.” Despite the incredible effort required to organize and implement such a course, Professor Skerlos sought out additional opportunities to improve undergraduate education. He co-developed the nine-credit undergraduate program in sustainable engineering in order to expose students to the principles of sustainable design. He also co-created the undergraduate minor in multidisciplinary design, which awards credit to students engaged in design projects across the college. In 2008, Professor Skerlos co-founded the BLUElab, a large, student-run organization whose mission is to find sustainable solutions to challenging development problems locally and abroad. BLUElab has attracted over 800 students from all engineering fields and has been particularly popular among female students. Professor Skerlos also routinely mentors undergraduate students through the Undergraduate Research Opportunity Program, working with over 20 students to date. His significant impact on students is best expressed by this comment from a colleague: “There are very few professors who have been as broadly and deeply involved with undergraduate students as Professor Skerlos; as an instructor, a mentor, and a leader in education.”

ACADEMIC DRESS AND CUSTOM

The colorful gowns and hoods worn by faculty members at commencement and other academic ceremonies represent the degrees, disciplines, and alma maters of the wearers. The American academic costume tradition, imported from England, dates to Colonial days.

GOWNS

Bachelor's or master's degree gowns traditionally are black, as are many doctoral gowns in the United States. Some universities prescribe that their graduates wear gowns of another solid color such as blue, crimson, or green. Gowns differ in sleeve cut and trim. For example, the bachelor's gown has long, pointed sleeves while the master's gown has oblong sleeves. Doctoral gowns, with their distinctive bell-shaped sleeves, feature velvet panels down the front and around the neck, as well as crossbars of velvet on the sleeves. Colored trim denotes the field or discipline in which the degree was earned. Usually only a single degree from one institution is indicated by a garment. If more than one degree is held, the gown and hood of the higher or highest degree usually are worn.

HOODS

The hood most precisely describes the wearer's level of degree earned, the major field of learning, and the alma mater. The level of the degree held is indicated by the hood's shape and size and the width of its velvet or velveteen trimming. The bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are 36 inches, 42 inches, and 48 inches long, respectively. The velvet trim is two, three, and five inches wide, with the narrowest being for the bachelor's hood and the widest for the doctor's hood. The color of trim on the hood, as on the gown, identifies the major field of learning in which the degree was awarded. The hood is lined with the official colors of the college or university conferring the degree.

CAPS

Caps vary in style from the traditional black mortarboard to eight-, six-, and four-corner tams, and Elizabethan-style caps. The mortarboard may be of any appropriate material, such as cotton, poplin, rayon, or silk, to match the gown. Velvet is reserved for holders of doctorates.

THE UNIVERSITY MACE

The University's mace, a symbol of authority, is carried at the head of academic processions on such important ceremonial occasions as commencements, convocations, and inaugurations. The mace being used today was given to the University in 1968 by the Senior Board, representing all the undergraduate schools and colleges. Crafted of red oak and trimmed with silver, the mace features the seals of the University and of the State of Michigan. Also engraved on the mace are the names of the University Presidents.

JAMES B. ANGELL SCHOLARS

Students who achieve an all “A” record for two or more consecutive terms are recognized as James B. Angell Scholars. The student must have taken a minimum of 14 credit hours each term, including at least 12 graded credits. Following each scholar’s name is the number of consecutive terms the student has had an all “A” record.

STATEMENT ON FREEDOM OF SPEECH AND ARTISTIC EXPRESSION

Thank you for attending this program. The University of Michigan strives to create a truly open forum, one in which diverse opinions can be expressed and heard.

It is the right of members of the University community, speakers, artists, and other invited guests to express their views and opinions at the University. We will protect the right of individuals to speak or perform, and the rights of those members of the University community who wish to hear and communicate with an invited speaker or artist.

Protesters also have a right to express their opposition to a speaker in appropriate ways, both within the confines of this building and outside the facility. However, protesters must not interfere unduly with communication between a speaker or artist and members of the audience.

If the hosts of this event or University representatives believe that protesters are interfering unduly with a speaker or performer's freedom of expression, those protesters will be warned. If the warnings are not heeded and the interference continues, then the individuals responsible may be removed from the building.

We reaffirm these policies in order to most fully protect the rights of free expression for speakers, performers, and protesters alike, as set forth by our Civil Liberties Board in our Student Handbook, and in accordance with the U-M Standard Practice Guide; Regents' Ordinance Article XII, Section 1; and state statutes.

NONDISCRIMINATION POLICY

The University of Michigan, as an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action. THE YELLOW AND BLUE

SING TO THE COLORS THAT FLOAT IN THE LIGHT;
HURRAH FOR THE YELLOW AND BLUE!

YELLOW THE STARS AS THEY RIDE THRO' THE NIGHT,
AND REEL IN A ROLICKING CREW;

YELLOW THE FIELDS WHERE RIPENS THE GRAIN,
AND YELLOW THE MOON ON THE HARVEST WAIN;

HAIL!

HAIL TO THE COLORS THAT FLOAT IN THE LIGHT;
HURRAH FOR THE YELLOW AND BLUE!
