Honored Students
Honored Faculty
Faculty Colleagues and Friends of the University

It is a pleasure to welcome you to the 90th University of Michigan Honors Convocation. On behalf of the academic leaders on the Ann Arbor, Dearborn, and Flint campuses, I thank you for joining us today.

Honors Convocation provides us with the opportunity to recognize and celebrate the outstanding academic achievements of undergraduate students from all three of our campuses. It is one of my favorite events each year and has become an important University tradition.

Today we honor students who exemplify academic excellence, committed and creative leadership, and thoughtful service—all core values of the University. These students have demonstrated a passion for learning—challenging themselves and their teachers with tough questions and innovative ideas that stretch the boundaries of knowledge and open new pathways for exploration.

The University's mission states our commitment to “developing leaders who will challenge the present and enrich the future.” The students we honor today give life to that commitment through their purposeful engagement with the world.

Today we also honor a group of distinguished faculty members who have joined us for this ceremony. Recently recognized by the University for their outstanding teaching and scholarship, they represent the many individuals in our community who inspire, challenge, and support our students.

As we congratulate our students, we also recognize, with deep appreciation, the parents, family members, and friends who have nurtured and supported these remarkable students. The University of Michigan shares the pride you feel in their accomplishments. With you, we look forward to the contributions they will make to the future.

Congratulations and welcome!

HONORS CONVOCATION SPEAKERS

Rachel Hampton

Junior, College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Rachel Hampton, a James B. Angell Scholar who came to the University of Michigan from Clarkston, Michigan, is a junior in the Honors Program in the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts. She is pursuing a double major in political science and German and a minor in sustainability.

Ms. Hampton is interested in political theory and environmental policy. She is engaged in numerous academic and professional activities, including serving as communications coordinator for the Michigan Mentorship Program. She has competed nationally in court case simulations as a Michigan Mock Trial team member, and now is a team captain. Her proposal to reduce Ann Arbor restaurant waste, based on theory learned at U-M, was a finalist in the 2012 MPowered Entrepreneurship 1,000 Pitches Competition. Additionally, last summer she broadened her cultural perspective studying at the Goethe-Institut in Schwäbisch Hall, Germany. She plans to enroll in graduate or law school and pursue a career in environmental policy or environmental law.

Anne Curzan

*Arthur F. Thurnau Professor of English, Professor of Linguistics, College of Literature, Science, and the Arts
Professor of Education, School of Education*

Professor Curzan, a member of the University of Michigan faculty since 2002, was named a Thurnau Professor in 2007 in recognition of her teaching excellence and work with universities around the country to better prepare graduate students to teach. She earned her bachelor's degree in linguistics from Yale University and her master's degree and doctorate, both in English language and literature, from the University of Michigan. She taught at the University of Washington from 1998 to 2002.

Fascinated by how language changes, Professor Curzan's primary research areas include the history of English, language and gender, historical sociolinguistics, pedagogy, composition and rhetoric, and lexicography. She co-directs U-M's Joint Ph.D. Program in English and Education. Professor Curzan has authored or co-authored How English Works: A Linguistic Introduction (Pearson/Longman, 3rd ed., 2012), First Day to Final Grade: A Graduate Student's Guide to Teaching (U-M Press, 3rd ed., 2011), and Gender Shifts in the History of English (Cambridge University Press, 2003), as well as numerous journal articles and reviews. She shares her insights into the quirks and trends in the English language on her weekly Michigan Radio show That's What They Say, the LSA Wire monthly video feature "The Word on Language and Grammar," and her Michigan Today column "Talking about Words." Professor Curzan, an enthusiastic runner and swimmer, serves as the University's faculty representative to the National Collegiate Athletic Association and Big Ten Conference. She also is a member of the University's Academic Affairs Advisory Committee.

Professor Curzan has received many honors, including the Faculty Recognition Award, Department of English Undergraduate Teaching Award, and, in 2012, U-M's John Dewey Award, which recognizes scholarly productivity, leadership, engagement with students, and long-term commitment to the education of undergraduates.

RHODES, MARSHALL, MITCHELL, AND CHURCHILL SCHOLARSHIPS

Rhodes, Marshall, Mitchell, and Churchill Scholarships are among the world's most prestigious academic awards for graduate students. Since the estate of British philanthropist Cecil John Rhodes established Rhodes Scholarships in 1904, 26 University of Michigan alumni have studied as Rhodes Scholars at Oxford University. Thirty-two Americans are named Rhodes Scholars each year. International students may apply to or be nominated by 13 other jurisdictions designated by the Rhodes Trust.

Marshall Scholarships, founded by an Act of Parliament in 1953, finance opportunities for young American scholars of high ability to study in the United Kingdom. The scholarship commemorates the humane ideals of the European Recovery Program (Marshall Plan) and funds one or two years of study. Approximately 40 Marshall Scholarships are awarded annually to American students who demonstrate maturity, self-reliance, and self-discipline. Spencer Smith, who has won a Marshall Scholarship for study in England starting next fall, will be the University of Michigan's sixteenth Marshall Scholar.

The Churchill Scholarship provides high-achieving U.S. citizens with funding for a single year of graduate work in math, science, or engineering at Churchill College, Cambridge. Only about 14 scholarships are awarded annually. The College of Literature, Science, and the Arts' Nicholas Triantafillou will study math at Cambridge in the fall as a Churchill Scholar.

In 1999, the George J. Mitchell Scholarships were established for American university students. This third competitive national scholarship program, supported by the Irish and British governments and other benefactors, honors former Senator George J. Mitchell for his contributions to the Northern Ireland peace process. The prestigious award allows Americans to pursue one year of post-graduate study in Ireland and Northern Ireland. Up to 12 George J. Mitchell Scholarships are awarded annually to students who have shown both academic distinction and the potential for leadership.

2013 THURNAU PROFESSORS

The Thurnau Professorships were established in 1988 to recognize and reward faculty for outstanding contributions to undergraduate education. The professorships honor tenured faculty members who, through their commitment and investment in undergraduate teaching, have had a positive impact on the intellectual development and lives of students.

Arthur F. Thurnau, for whom the Thurnau Professorship is named, attended the University of Michigan from fall of 1902 until spring of 1904. He studied a liberal arts curriculum, but he did not graduate. This was not uncommon for the time, and although his three brothers also attended the University of Michigan, only one of them graduated. In his two years here, Arthur completed 58 credits of French, German, history, English, rhetoric, politics, and economics. He also was a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity and sang in the Freshmen Glee Club.

Arthur later returned to Chicago, and worked as an “ad man,” selling advertising space in various magazines and newspapers. In this role, he eventually rose to the position of vice president and western manager for the firm Paul Block, Inc. He was actively involved in U-M alumni events in Chicago, even trying to arrange a football game between the Wolverines and the University of Chicago Maroons during that period of time when Chicago was part of the Big Ten Conference and Michigan was not. He also put his organizational talents to work during World War II by creating events to encourage the sale of government bonds.

Arthur Thurnau’s generosity to the University of Michigan began in 1966, and continued through the rest of his life. Upon his death in 1979, his estate created the Thurnau Charitable Trust to support the University of Michigan. Since 1988, these funds have been used to support the Thurnau Professorships. Thurnau Professors receive $20,000 grants to support activities that enhance teaching. It is this important recognition for faculty that Arthur F. Thurnau so generously provided for and that the University of Michigan celebrates.

The University is pleased to recognize this year’s Thurnau Professors.

Samuel D. Epstein

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of Linguistics

College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

An international leader in the study of generative syntax, Professor Epstein’s unwavering dedication to undergraduates has yielded impressive dividends. His contagious love for his subject and skillful classroom performance create an interactive environment characterized by humor, respect, and lively participation, transforming large lectures into intimate intellectual exchanges. He promotes authentic learning and open dialogue, encouraging students to think critically about linguistic concepts. The results are powerful: one student describes “a seismic shift in my cognitive framework as a result of his teaching.” Another called him “that one unforgettable teacher to whom one compares all other instructors.” Professor Epstein is also well-respected as a mentor, known for being generous with his time, positive in his approach, and dedicated to students’ individual needs. His honors theses advisees have received awards, presented at national conferences, and published in peer-reviewed journals. He has inspired many students to pursue graduate work, and several have secured tenure-track and post-doctoral positions. Within his department, Professor Epstein is known for providing “the voice of students” in regard to policy and curriculum changes. He was a leader in developing the Language and Mind subconcentration and the interdisciplinary Cognitive Science major. As one colleague notes, his “vision of linguistics as a cognitive science provided the essential ‘glue’ in our efforts to create a coherent curriculum that will cross traditional departmental boundaries.” In the words of another colleague, “Professor Epstein is one of Michigan’s gems, and his sustained and positive impact on both the students and the institution warrants the recognition that the Thurnau Professorship brings.”

Martha S. Jones

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Associate Professor of History

Associate Professor of Afroamerican and African Studies

College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Adjunct Assistant Professor of Law

Law School

An unparalleled teacher, committed, innovative, collaborative, visionary, and generous with her time—these words from colleagues testify to the incredible impact Professor Jones has on undergraduate education at U-M. Jointly appointed in history, Afroamerican and African studies, and law, her interdisciplinary research infuses her exceptional teaching. Professor Jones employs a “pedagogy of love,” helping students connect with old texts in ways that go much deeper than simply reading and analyzing historical documents. Her classroom is known for a strong ethos of trust and commitment—a safe space for students to engage with sensitive topics. As a co-teacher explains, Professor Jones combines “a caring, student-centered approach with insistence that students have a reciprocal responsibility to plunge into primary sources and argue carefully for their interpretation.” Pushing beyond conventional classroom boundaries, she creates unique experiential learning projects that connect primary research with community involvement. Her public exhibits, such as the recent “Proclaiming Emancipation” project at the Hatcher Library, provide “innovative experiences where students discover how vivid the past can be.” Students praise her mentoring as an Undergraduate Research Opportunity Program sponsor for enabling them to “see behind the scenes and understand the real context of our work.” In the words of a colleague, “Professor Jones’ teaching represents the very best of Michigan’s concern for undergraduate learning, for civic engagement, and for rigorous research.”

Fritz A. Kaenzig

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of Music

School of Music, Theatre & Dance

Throughout his 23-year tenure at U-M, Professor Kaenzig has, in the words of his dean, “consistently maintained the highest standards of teaching and learning, and served as a source of constant inspiration for both colleagues and students.” Recipient of the 1999 Harold Haugh Award for excellence in studio teaching, his commitment to undergraduates is renowned both at U-M and beyond. Under his expert direction, the tuba/euphonium studio is widely acknowledged as the finest in the country, and many of his former students play in top orchestras or serve as professors at major schools of music. In the classroom, Professor Kaenzig fosters a “distinctive culture of responsibility, accountability, camaraderie, respectful competition, and mutual support.” Students describe his charismatic teaching as “sheer magic” and a “rejuvenating balance of substance and inspiration.” One student explains that Professor Kaenzig “always made me feel like I was his only student by giving me his full attention when his studio door opened.” By creating a positive environment, he accommodates the varying skill levels and diverse cultural backgrounds of students, helping them see music as a gift and a calling to be shared with others. His cultivation of diversity is evident in the success of one of his students, who while still a senior at U-M, won the coveted position of Principal Tubist in the Philadelphia Orchestra—one of the top orchestras in the country—and thus became the first female ever to hold a principal tuba chair in a major American orchestra. A valued mentor, he is known for his exceptional ability to nurture students’ confidence and facilitate their development of leadership skills necessary for success after graduation. Indeed, many students report patterning their own careers after Professor Kaenzig’s example. In the words of a colleague, “he is a model U-M instructor with an extraordinary commitment to teaching and learning in all its professional and human facets.”

Janice C. Paul

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of Art

Penny W. Stamps School of Art and Design

Professor of Social Work

School of Social Work

Nationally recognized for pedagogical innovation and visionary leadership, Professor Paul has been a pioneer in the promotion of civic engagement through art education, with a transformative effect on students, colleagues, and the Penny W. Stamps School of Art and Design. Colleagues describe her as “an exceptional educator, artist, and university citizen.” She is passionately dedicated to the intellectual, creative, and personal development of her students and believes that “every person deserves the tools and skills needed for positive, productive self-expression.” Her teaching embodies a fusion of artistic practice and social justice, cultivating “a rich pedagogy of reciprocal learning” in which students facilitate their own growth through working with others. As director of Community Connections, Professor Paul worked to expand community outreach, introducing an Engagement Learning curricular component and mentoring colleagues in the construction of engaged-learning courses. Her own courses and programs serve as national models for best practice in university/community partnership and redefine creative work through interaction with underserved communities, e.g., her Detroit Connections class, and her work with the Prison Creative Arts Project in which students facilitate art workshops for inmates. Colleagues testify that “Janie Paul’s personal commitment to diversity has brought about a seismic shift in how we as a community of artists define ourselves and our mission as educators” and note that her students have become “cognizant of their own responsibility toward a diverse larger society and their power to bring about change within it.” One of the school’s graduating seniors sums it up best: “Janie, you changed my life.”

Volker Sick

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Associate Vice President for Research, Natural Sciences and Engineering

Professor of Mechanical Engineering

College of Engineering

Since his arrival in 1997, Professor Sick has had a tremendous impact on the College of Engineering through his visionary leadership, incorporating international perspectives into the curricular and extra-curricular experiences of countless undergraduates. As a teacher and mentor, he is “inspiring, demanding, and approachable,” and known for tailoring research opportunities to the individual career goals of students. Among his innovative contributions, Professor Sick revolutionized a required junior-level course by modernizing the lab with upgraded equipment, new pedagogical strategies, and a restructured teaching team. As faculty advisor to U-M’s top ranked Formula SAE racing team, he has mentored several generations of students, advocating for improved work space, additional funding, and course credit. A team member calls him “one of our greatest assets and a valued ally in our continuing challenges.” His commitment to diversity is evident in his tireless promotion of international programs; his support for underrepresented, transfer, and international students; and the use of cross-cultural lab groups in his teaching. In 2008, Professor Sick co-created the minor in international engineering—the first of its kind in the country and currently the most popular minor in the college. Through his groundbreaking Engineering Across Cultures seminar, international engineering students are trained to combine technical expertise with global competence. One seminar student reflects: “I feel better able to interact with anyone, especially in the face of conflict; I feel ready for the world ahead, and eager to absorb the diversity within it.” In the words of a colleague, Professor Sick is a “leader in giving our students the hands-on experiences that characterize the very best of a U-M education in the twenty-first century.”

L. Monique Ward

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of Psychology

College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

A leading scholar in the field of adolescent media socialization, Professor Ward is “an excellent advisor, a wise, attentive, and accessible mentor, and an unparalleled model of undergraduate teaching.” A 2011 recipient of the John Dewey Award, Professor Ward is known for clarity of instruction and engaging classroom activities. In her course Introduction to Human Development, she encourages students to relate theories to their own lives, turning a large lecture course into a personal experience and one of the most popular courses in the department. In a seminar on children and the media, she draws on psychological theory, enabling students to explore sensitive issues such as body image, racial perceptions, and sexual attitudes. Through this course, Professor Ward brings students “face to face with the nature of media content geared toward children and adolescents, and the potential effects on their development.” She challenges students “to deeply engage with the material and pushes them to become critical consumers of research.” Professor Ward has also mentored independent research for over 100 undergraduates, many of whom have won awards, presented at conferences, and published their research. Students praise her “enthusiasm, emotional support, and instrumental assistance” throughout the research process, noting that she cultivates an atmosphere of collegiality, striking a balance between directing students and granting autonomy. Several junior faculty members have shadowed Professor Ward to learn from her expertise, and graduate student instructors report being inspired by her genuine concern for each undergraduate student. In addition, Professor Ward is a tireless promoter of diversity, recruiting and mentoring underrepresented minority students at U-M. One colleague notes, “single-handedly, Dr. Ward has trained a multi-ethnic and multi-racial cohort of scholars who will take their place among the ranks of developmental psychologists across the country.”

ACADEMIC DRESS AND CUSTOM

The colorful gowns and hoods worn by faculty members at commencement and other academic ceremonies represent the degrees, disciplines, and alma maters of the wearers. The American academic costume tradition, imported from England, dates to Colonial days.

GOWNS

Bachelor's or master's degree gowns traditionally are black, as are many doctoral gowns in the United States. Some universities prescribe that their graduates wear gowns of another solid color such as blue, crimson, or green. Gowns differ in sleeve cut and trim. For example, the bachelor's gown has long, pointed sleeves while the master's gown has oblong sleeves. Doctoral gowns, with their distinctive bell-shaped sleeves, feature velvet panels down the front and around the neck, as well as crossbars of velvet on the sleeves. Colored trim denotes the field or discipline in which the degree was earned. Usually only a single degree from one institution is indicated by a garment. If more than one degree is held, the gown and hood of the higher or highest degree usually are worn.

HOODS

The hood most precisely describes the wearer's level of degree earned, the major field of learning, and the alma mater. The level of the degree held is indicated by the hood's shape and size and the width of its velvet or velveteen trimming. The bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are 36, 42, and 48 inches long, respectively. The velvet trim is two, three, and five inches wide, with the narrowest being for the bachelor's hood and the widest for the doctor's hood. The color of trim on the hood, as on the gown, identifies the major field of learning in which the degree was awarded. The hood is lined with the official colors of the college or university conferring the degree.

CAPS

Caps vary in style from the traditional black mortarboard to eight-, six-, and four-corner tams, and Elizabethan-style caps. The mortarboard may be of any appropriate material, such as cotton, poplin, rayon, or silk, to match the gown. Velvet is reserved for holders of doctorates.

ACADEMIC COLORS

THE UNIVERSITY MACE

The University's mace, a symbol of authority, is carried at the head of academic processions on such important ceremonial occasions as commencements, convocations, and inaugurations. The mace being used today was given to the University in 1968 by the Senior Board, representing all the undergraduate schools and colleges. Crafted of red oak and trimmed with silver, the mace features the seals of the University and of the State of Michigan. Also engraved on the mace are the names of the University Presidents.
