

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

93RD ANNUAL
HONORS
CONVOCATION

Hill Auditorium
March 20, 2016 | 2:00 p.m.

This year marks the 93rd Honors Convocation held at the University of Michigan since the first was instituted on May 13, 1924, by President Marion LeRoy Burton. On these occasions the University publicly recognizes and commends the undergraduate students in its schools and colleges who have earned distinguished academic records or have excelled as leaders in the community. It is highly appropriate that those students be honored who have most clearly and effectively demonstrated academic excellence, dynamic leadership, and inspirational volunteerism. The Honors Convocation takes rank with the Commencement Exercises among the important ceremonies of the University year.

The names of the students who are honored for outstanding achievement this year appear in this program. They include all students who have earned University Honors in both Winter 2015 and Fall 2015, plus all seniors who have earned University Honors in either Winter 2015 or Fall 2015. The William J. Branstrom Freshman Prize recipients are listed, as well—recognizing first year undergraduate students whose academic achievement during their first semester on campus place them in the upper five percent of their school or college class. James B. Angell Scholars—students who receive all “A” grades over consecutive terms—are given a special place in the program. In addition, the student speaker is recognized individually for exemplary contributions to the University community.

To all honored students, and to their parents, the University extends its hearty congratulations.

Honored Students
Honored Faculty
Faculty Colleagues and Friends of the University

It is a pleasure to welcome you to the 93rd University of Michigan Honors Convocation. On behalf of the academic leaders on the Ann Arbor, Dearborn, and Flint campuses, I thank you for joining us today.

The Honors Convocation is an important University tradition, where we recognize and celebrate the outstanding academic achievements of undergraduate students from all three of our campuses.

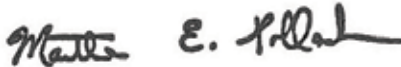

Today we honor students who exemplify academic excellence, committed and creative leadership, and thoughtful service—all core values of the University. These students have demonstrated a passion for learning—challenging themselves, and their teachers, with tough questions and innovative ideas that stretch the boundaries of knowledge and open new pathways for exploration.

The University's mission statement includes our commitment to "developing leaders who will challenge the present and enrich the future." The students we honor today give life to that commitment through their purposeful engagement with the world.

Today we also honor a group of distinguished faculty members who have joined us for this ceremony. Recently recognized by the University for their outstanding teaching and scholarship, they represent the many individuals in our community who inspire, challenge, and support our students.

As we congratulate our students, we also recognize, with deep appreciation, the parents, family members, and friends who have nurtured and supported these remarkable students. The University of Michigan shares the pride you feel in their accomplishments. With you, we look forward to the contributions they will make to the future.

Congratulations and welcome!

“How Far Will the Legacy We Leave Behind Travel?”

The theme for this year’s event is intended to prompt discussion about how University of Michigan students, faculty, and staff can leave an imprint on society...what will become of that legacy in the future, and what might it reveal about our actions of today?

HONORS CONVOCATION SPEAKERS

Mario Shammas

Senior, College of Literature, Science, and the Arts
Four Term Angell Scholar
University Honors

Mario Shammas, a senior from Macomb Township, Michigan, is majoring in neuroscience in the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts.

A four-term James B. Angell Scholar and Honors Program student, he was born in Baghdad, Iraq, and lived in Jordan and Oman before immigrating to Michigan with his family in 2010. As president of the Arabic Language Club, he organizes the group's language and cultural events. Additionally, he helps students gain fluency speaking Arabic at weekly conversation sessions. Working previously as a linguistics research assistant, he created three-dimensional representations of the vocal mechanics required to produce Arabic sounds. He also designed and is teaching a one-credit seminar about neurological disorders to first-year honors students. The course is based on his honors thesis and his research on the neuroprotective effect of various compounds on the progression of Parkinson's disease. After graduation, he plans to take a gap year before pursuing a combined medical degree and doctorate in neurology or neurosurgery.

Thad A. Polk

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of Psychology
Associate Chair, Department of Psychology
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Professor Polk, a University of Michigan faculty member since 1996, was named a Thurnau Professor in 2006 in recognition of his outstanding teaching and commitment to students. He earned a bachelor's degree in mathematics with distinction from the University of Virginia and an interdisciplinary doctorate in psychology and computer science from Carnegie Mellon University. His research interests span the effects of nature, nurture, and aging on the neural architecture of cognition, including the neural structures and processes that give rise to cognition and how they interact to form the mind. Professor Polk publishes extensively on neuroscience topics. He co-authored the book Human Learning: Biology, Brain, and Neuroscience (2008) and co-edited two others. Professor Polk has mentored more than 100 undergraduate researchers and garners near-perfect student ratings in his Introduction to Cognitive Psychology, The Human Mind and Brain freshman seminar, and other courses. He and his family regularly host meals for students in their home. He received a U-M Excellence in Education Award in 1999 and was recognized as one of the Best 300 Professors in the United States by The Princeton Review in 2012. Professor Polk chairs U-M's Health Sciences and Behavioral Sciences Institutional Review Board and is a member of the University's Transforming Learning for the Third Century Committee. He is an Association for Psychological Science fellow and has been a visiting scientist at the Max Planck Institute for Human Development. Through his teaching, research, and example, Professor Polk inspires students to engage with some of science's most intriguing questions, including how the mind arises from the brain.

RHODES, MARSHALL, AND CHURCHILL SCHOLARSHIPS

Rhodes, Marshall, and Churchill Scholarships are among the world's most prestigious academic awards for graduate students. Since the estate of British philanthropist Cecil John Rhodes established Rhodes Scholarships in 1904, 27 University of Michigan alumni have studied as Rhodes Scholars at Oxford University. Thirty-two Americans are named Rhodes Scholars each year.

Marshall Scholarships, founded by an Act of Parliament in 1953, finance opportunities for young American scholars of high ability to study in the United Kingdom. The scholarship commemorates the humane ideals of the European Recovery Program (Marshall Plan) and funds one or two years of study. Thirty-one Marshall Scholarships are awarded annually to American students who demonstrate potential to excel as scholars, as leaders, and as contributors to improved U.S.-U.K. understanding.

The Churchill Scholarship started in 1963 with three awards and has since grown to 14. It provides funding to American students for a year of master's study in science, mathematics, and engineering at the University of Cambridge, based at Churchill College. The scholarship was set up at the request of Sir Winston Churchill in order to fulfil his vision of U.S.-U.K. scientific exchange with the goal of advancing science and technology on both sides of the Atlantic, helping to ensure our future prosperity and security. The Churchill Scholarship has been called the most academically challenging of the U.K. scholarships. In total, 13 students from Michigan have now been named Churchill Scholars, including Honors Mathematics and Computer Science undergraduate student Karl Winsor, who has been named a 2016-17 Churchill Scholar by the Winston Churchill Foundation of the United States.

RAOUL WALLENBERG FELLOWSHIP

Inspired by the spirit of Raoul Wallenberg, the Wallenberg Fellowship is awarded in the spring of each year to a graduating senior of exceptional promise and accomplishment who is committed to service and the public good. The fellowship provides $25,000 to carry out an independent project of learning or exploration anywhere in the world during the year after graduation. The Fellow will engage in a self-designed and self-directed area of exploration or project of experiential learning. Through an active and immersive year-long experience, and by connecting in meaningful ways with the lives of other people and communities, the Wallenberg Fellow will prepare to make a difference in the world.

The Fellowship honors Raoul Wallenberg (B.S. Arch. '35), one of the most illustrious graduates of the University of Michigan. At U-M, Wallenberg was recognized for the excellence of his academic work, his eagerness for knowledge of the world and for understanding others, and for his intrepid independence and resourcefulness. He left Ann Arbor resolved to be actively engaged in life. Ten years later, as a Swedish diplomat during World War II, Wallenberg coordinated the rescue of tens of thousands of Jews in Budapest. He disappeared after he was arrested by Soviet authorities. One of the great heroes of the 20th century, Raoul Wallenberg shows that even under the most daunting circumstances, one person can make a difference.

The University of Michigan would like to express its deep appreciation to U-M parents Jon and Lili Bosse and U-M alumnus Bert Askwith (B.A. '31). Jon and Lilli Bosse's generous gift initiated the Wallenberg Fellowship in 2013. In 2014, Bert Askwith generously created the Mary Sue Coleman Endowed Fund for the Raoul Wallenberg Fellowship to support future generations of Michigan students who are inspired by Wallenberg's legacy, and to honor President Coleman's leadership during her tenure at U-M.

We proudly recognize the following students:

Meredith Starkman School of Music, Theatre & Dance	Wallenberg Recipient
Jessica Dozier College of Literature, Science, and the Arts	Wallenberg Finalist
Andrea Marquez A. Alfred Taubman College of Architecture and Urban Planning	Wallenberg Finalist

2016 THURNAU PROFESSORS

The Thurnau Professorships were established in 1988 to recognize and reward faculty for outstanding contributions to undergraduate education. The professorships honor tenured faculty members who, through their commitment and investment in undergraduate teaching, have had a positive impact on the intellectual development and lives of students.

Arthur F. Thurnau, for whom the Thurnau Professorship is named, attended the University of Michigan from fall of 1902 until spring of 1904. He studied a liberal arts curriculum, but he did not graduate. This was not uncommon for the time, and although his three brothers also attended the University of Michigan, only one of them graduated. In his two years here, Arthur completed 58 credits of French, German, history, English, rhetoric, politics, and economics. He also was a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity and sang in the Freshmen Glee Club.

Arthur later returned to Chicago, and worked as an “ad man,” selling advertising space in various magazines and newspapers. In this role, he eventually rose to the position of vice president and western manager for the firm Paul Block, Inc. He was actively involved in U-M alumni events in Chicago, even trying to arrange a football game between the Wolverines and the University of Chicago Maroons during that period of time when Chicago was part of the Big Ten Conference and Michigan was not. He also put his organizational talents to work during World War II by creating events to encourage the sale of government bonds.

Arthur Thurnau’s generosity to the University of Michigan began in 1966, and continued through the rest of his life. Upon his death in 1979, his estate created the Thurnau Charitable Trust to support the University of Michigan. Since 1988, these funds have been used to support the Thurnau Professorships. Thurnau Professors receive $20,000 grants to support activities that enhance teaching. It is this important recognition for faculty that Arthur F. Thurnau so generously provided for and that the University of Michigan celebrates. The University is pleased to recognize this year’s Thurnau Professors.

Aline J. Cotel

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Associate Professor of Civil and Environmental Engineering
College of Engineering
Associate Professor of Environment
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Professor Cotel's passion for teaching and dedication to student learning are evident in her innovative pedagogy and commitment to international education and mentorship of women in engineering. Her Stream Restoration course draws students from multiple disciplines across campus to design restoration strategies for local sites. This interdisciplinary course inspired the creation of a new section of Introduction to Engineering focused on design solutions for restoration of local streams. A colleague notes, "Professor Cotel shows students implications of the interdisciplinary approaches necessary to understand issues critical to society and to formulate solutions." Beyond the classroom, Professor Cotel is an exceptional mentor. She has increased undergraduates' exposure to research through her work with the Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program and the NASA Sharp Program, and helped several of her graduate students become award-winning instructors themselves. Her dedication to mentoring students and developing real-world solutions fuels her work in Africa. As a key member of the presidentially-funded STEM-Africa Initiative, she engages both U-M students and African students in collectively improving engineering capacity in those countries, and she nurtures and sustains a West African network of female engineers. A colleague praises her efforts because they "not only benefit our partner institutions in Africa but also our U-M undergraduate and graduate students, who through her initiatives have accessed opportunities for experiential learning and developing international expertise."

Fiona Lee

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of Psychology
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts
Associate Professor of Organizational Behavior and Human Resource Management
Steven M. Ross School of Business

Professor Lee has distinguished herself as an exemplary educator through her careful and deliberate approach to teaching excellence and deep commitment to teaching about diversity. Letters from students and colleagues describe her dedication to ensuring an open and safe classroom climate for all students. Her unique "step-up" approach allows students in her 300-person Introduction to Organizational Psychology course to engage with complex social issues. Students first grapple with diversity in personality styles and then use their insights to examine their views on other forms of diversity. The result is the type of in-depth discussion of race, ethnicity, class, and gender that is quite rare in a course of this size. Even more remarkable is that she consistently receives high student ratings in this large course. Drawing on her insights about teaching diversity, she co-designed a seminar for first-time graduate student instructors. The seminar includes practical strategies for productively addressing the controversial subject matter that often arises in psychology courses. As a mentor, her laboratory attracts a large number of students from underrepresented backgrounds, and she encourages them to draw on their own experiences to advance research in her lab. As one colleague notes, "Professor Lee has created a culture where students from minority groups feel that they can speak up, that their experiences are valuable, and they can take on leadership roles directing research in her lab." Professor Lee's teaching record is marked by uniform excellence across a wide range of activities. As a colleague writes, "her dedication to the pedagogical mission of the University is multifaceted and profound."

Joanna M. Millunchick

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of Materials Science and Engineering
College of Engineering

Winner of numerous awards, Professor Millunchick has shown a longstanding commitment to educating U-M's diverse student body. As one colleague states, "Her leadership and innovative approach to finding new ways of teaching and exploring how diverse students best learn have been widely recognized by the college and by the University." As a classroom teacher, she pushes students to think critically and to make connections across courses. Students praise her accessibility, her openness to student feedback, and her dedication to maximizing student learning. Well known for her innovations in teaching, Professor Millunchick has engaged in pioneering work to implement and rigorously assess the impact of various technology tools on student learning in the classroom. Her commitment to investigating the effectiveness of these approaches speaks to her eagerness to learn new and important ways to achieve a highly inclusive learning environment where all students can achieve their potential. Her efforts in this regard extend well beyond her own classroom. She has been a key collaborator with the Women in Science and Engineering program, participating in outreach efforts with K-12 students interested in engineering. She also played a leadership role as the faculty director for the M-STEM academy, which recruits and supports students in all STEM fields. She has co-developed a multi-semester design course that draws students from across U-M to focus on envisioning the campus of the future. As one colleague writes, "Joanna is an exemplary teacher: she is innovative, she thinks about teaching and learning far beyond her own discipline, and she inspires others."

Kathleen H. Sienko

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering
Associate Professor of Biomedical Engineering
College of Engineering

Professor Sienko's innovative teaching and inspired leadership in undergraduate education have garnered her multiple teaching awards. She initiated an ambitious Global Health Design program, which a colleague describes as "an intensive, life-changing experience for students." The program involves participation in international, collaborative projects, as students work in multidisciplinary teams to develop low-cost medical devices at field sites in Ghana and China. In the process, students gain first-hand experience in real-world settings, learning to engage with individuals from diverse backgrounds. Students in her courses describe Professor Sienko as an exemplary role model and mentor who leads by example while allowing them to make their own discoveries. As one student writes, "She clearly believed that we were capable of taking responsibility for our own learning, and we successfully published the work we did during senior design and even spun the technology off into a start-up company." On a curricular level, Professor Sienko has initiated several educational programs focused on the topic of global health design, including development of a minor and the founding of Inistu, a center for socially engaged design, which develops students' capacities to consider human, cultural, economic, and environmental factors when designing technology. Her teaching and her contributions to the curriculum have had a lasting impact on students. As one colleague writes, "Professor Sienko is a truly extraordinary educator who has captured the hearts and impacted the lives of our students with her magnificent teaching skills, her exceptional caring, and her wonderful mentorship."

Arthur M. Verhoogt

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of Papyrology and Greek
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Professor Verhoogt's award-winning teaching combines pedagogical creativity, academic rigor, and intellectual fun in courses ranging from large introductory lectures to small seminars. In his large courses on Sport and Daily Life in the Roman World and on Greek Mythology, he consistently receives high student ratings, thanks to his animated lectures and active learning techniques. In his smaller seminars, he conveys complicated ideas in interesting ways, recreating classical Athens in one first-year seminar and giving students hands-on experience with papyri in another. One student proclaimed him a "fantastic professor, one who not only has a clear passion for the subject and does a great job explaining the material, but who also genuinely cares about getting to know his students." Professor Verhoogt shares his passion for papyrology through public outreach and by engaging students in original research. He has curated exhibits for Harlan Hatcher Graduate Library, created an iPhone app on the Epistles of Paul, and collaborated to make papyri collections accessible online. He also involves undergraduates in original research using U-M's papyrus collection, despite the difficulty of reading and interpreting these ancient texts. Largely due to his mentorship, his students have written award-winning honors theses and pursued graduate study in classics. As a colleague writes, "it is remarkable that several of his students have made new discoveries and produced publishable work." In all these venues, Professor Verhoogt brings the ancient world alive for his students. As one student said, "Through an ancient lens, he expertly applied course material to modern concepts, demonstrating the universal nature of classics with energetic wit and unparalleled enthusiasm."

Patricia J. Wittkopp

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology
Professor of Molecular, Cellular, and Developmental Biology
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Professor Wittkopp's commitment to engaged pedagogy and student success has garnered her numerous awards. She is an outstanding instructor in both advanced and introductory courses. In her upper-level, interdisciplinary course on Genetics, Development, and Evolution, Professor Wittkopp asks students to think critically about primary research in the field, including how a study could be enhanced and what new questions the results pose. A colleague describes the course as "a compelling and transformative intellectual experience" that has a profound impact on the career trajectory of students. She revamped the 300-student Introduction to Genetics from a traditional lecture to one employing multiple active learning pedagogies, including the use of technology to promote peer learning and pre-class preparation. One student describes the effect of this interactive approach: "Through talking with others about challenging questions, I learned much more than if I had attempted them alone or waited passively for the answer during the lecture." Her impact on students extends beyond the classroom to mentoring numerous undergraduates, many of them from backgrounds currently underrepresented in science. In addition to her achievements as a teacher and mentor, she has played a central role in U-M's REBUILD project, a multi-department effort to rethink science education at the University. The impact of her commitment to undergraduate education led one colleague to describe Professor Wittkopp as "a deeply committed, dedicated teacher who regularly takes on the most difficult assignments. She is a leader, setting a new standard for excellence among her peers."

ACADEMIC DRESS AND CUSTOM

The colorful gowns and hoods worn by faculty members at commencement and other academic ceremonies represent the degrees, disciplines, and alma maters of the wearers. The American academic costume tradition, imported from England, dates to Colonial days.

Gowns

Bachelor's or master's degree gowns traditionally are black, as are many doctoral gowns in the United States. Some universities prescribe that their graduates wear gowns of another solid color such as blue, crimson, or green. Gowns differ in sleeve cut and trim. For example, the bachelor's gown has long, pointed sleeves while the master's gown has oblong sleeves. Doctoral gowns, with their distinctive bell-shaped sleeves, feature velvet panels down the front and around the neck, as well as crossbars of velvet on the sleeves. Colored trim denotes the field or discipline in which the degree was earned. Usually only a single degree from one institution is indicated by a garment. If more than one degree is held, the gown and hood of the higher or highest degree usually are worn.

Hoods

The hood most precisely describes the wearer's level of degree earned, the major field of learning, and the alma mater. The level of the degree held is indicated by the hood's shape and size and the width of its velvet or velveteen trimming. The bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are 36 inches, 42 inches, and 48 inches long, respectively. The velvet trim is two, three, and five inches wide, with the narrowest being for the bachelor's hood and the widest for the doctor's hood. The color of trim on the hood, as on the gown, identifies the major field of learning in which the degree was awarded. The hood is lined with the official colors of the college or university conferring the degree.

Caps

Caps vary in style from the traditional black mortarboard to eight-, six-, and four-corner tams, and Elizabethan-style caps. The mortarboard may be of any appropriate material, such as cotton, poplin, rayon, or silk, to match the gown. Velvet is reserved for holders of doctorates.

THE UNIVERSITY MACE

The University's mace, a symbol of authority, is carried at the head of academic processions on such important ceremonial occasions as commencements, convocations, and inaugurations. The mace being used today was given to the University in 1968 by the Senior Board, representing all the undergraduate schools and colleges. Crafted of red oak and trimmed with silver, the mace features the seals of the University and of the State of Michigan. Also engraved on the mace are the names of the University Presidents.

JAMES B. ANGELL SCHOLARS

STATEMENT ON FREEDOM OF SPEECH AND ARTISTIC EXPRESSION

Thank you for attending this program. The University of Michigan strives to create a truly open forum, one in which diverse opinions can be expressed and heard.

It is the right of members of the University community, speakers, artists, and other invited guests to express their views and opinions at the University. We will protect the right of individuals to speak or perform, and the rights of those members of the University community who wish to hear and communicate with an invited speaker or artist.

Protesters also have a right to express their opposition to a speaker in appropriate ways, both within the confines of this building and outside the facility. However, protesters must not interfere unduly with communication between a speaker or artist and members of the audience.

If the hosts of this event or University representatives believe that protesters are interfering unduly with a speaker or performer's freedom of expression, those protesters will be warned. If the warnings are not heeded and the interference continues, then the individuals responsible may be removed from the building.

We reaffirm these policies in order to most fully protect the rights of free expression for speakers, performers, and protesters alike, as set forth by our Civil Liberties Board in our Student Handbook, and in accordance with the U-M Standard Practice Guide; Regents' Ordinance Article XII, Section 1; and state statutes.

THE YELLOW AND BLUE

Sing to the colors that float in the light;
Hurrah for the Yellow and Blue!

Yellow the stars as they ride thro' the night,
And reel in a rollicking crew;

Yellow the fields where ripens the grain,
And Yellow the moon on the harvest wain;

Hail!

Hail to the colors that float in the light;
Hurrah for the Yellow and Blue!
