

100th Annual HONORS Convocation

MARCH 19, 2023

2:00 PM

HILL AUDITORIUM

This year marks the 100th Honors Convocation held at the University of Michigan since the first was instituted on May 13, 1924, by President Marion LeRoy Burton. On these occasions, the University publicly recognizes and commends the undergraduate students in its schools and colleges who have earned distinguished academic records or have excelled as leaders in the community. It is with great pride that the University honors those students who have most clearly and effectively demonstrated academic excellence, dynamic leadership, and inspirational volunteerism. The Honors Convocation ranks with the Commencement Exercises as among the most important ceremonies of the University year.

The names of the students who are honored for outstanding achievement this year appear in this program. They include all students who have earned University Honors in both Winter 2022 and Fall 2022, plus all seniors who have earned University Honors in either Winter 2022 or Fall 2022. The William J. Branstrom Freshman Prize recipients are listed, as well – recognizing first year undergraduate students whose academic achievement during their first semester on campus place them in the upper five percent of their school or college class. James B. Angell Scholars – students who receive all “A” grades over consecutive terms – are given a special place in the program. In addition, the student speaker is recognized individually for exemplary contributions to the University community.

To all honored students, and to their parents, the University extends its hearty congratulations.

Laurie K. McCauley • Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs

Honored Students
Honored Faculty
Faculty Colleagues and Friends of the University

Welcome to the 100th University of Michigan Honors Convocation.

On behalf of the academic leaders from the Ann Arbor, Dearborn, and Flint campuses, thank you for being part of the centennial anniversary of this important milestone.

For one hundred years, the Honors Convocation has recognized and celebrated the outstanding academic achievements of undergraduate students from all three of our campuses.

The students here today have exhibited extraordinary dedication to their studies, academic acumen, and intellectual curiosity. They have also proven themselves adaptable; an excellent contemporary education is a highly interdisciplinary and holistic one, and without flexibility, our honorees could not have achieved at this superlative level. Today's undergraduates prepare to enter a postgraduate world that is stunning in its complexity. Accordingly, our undergraduates' studies demand rigor, innovation, adaptation, and intellectual humility. Today's honorees have demonstrated all these traits, alongside an ability to navigate vast tracts of unfamiliar knowledge with courage and grace.

This class of honorees serves as inspiration to the faculty dedicated to their education. Many distinguished faculty members, recently recognized by the University for their outstanding teaching and scholarship, join us today. These faculty represent many more who instruct, challenge, and mentor our students.

Today's celebration also honors the parents, family members, and friends who have walked beside our students on their academic journey. Those of you close to today's honorees have shared in the efforts that got them here. We are delighted and grateful that you are with us to share in the celebration of their accomplishments.

Congratulations and welcome!

Sincerely,

HONORS CONVOCATION SPEAKERS

Sarah Ilana Kreitman

Senior, College of Engineering and Stephen M. Ross School of Business
9-Term Angell Scholar

Sarah Kreitman, a senior from Birmingham, Michigan, and a James B. Angell Scholar, is earning two undergraduate degrees: a bachelor of science in mechanical engineering from the College of Engineering and a bachelor of business administration, with an emphasis in technology and operations, from the Stephen M. Ross School of Business.

Sarah is a nine-term James B. Angell Scholar, achieving an “A” record for nine consecutive terms within both the Ross School and the College of Engineering Honors Program. Beyond the classroom, Sarah held concurrent research assistantships. Within the College of Engineering, she worked as a heat-transfer research assistant. There, she designed experiments to assess the material properties of wet mineral wool insulation. She also served as a research assistant in the School of Public Health where she conducted mental illness cost-analyses. Sarah fulfilled three summer internships. She worked in instrument panel purchasing at General Motors (2020); in packaging engineering at Texas Instruments (2021); and in manufacturing engineering at General Mills (2022). For three years, she served as the president of JEngA, the Jewish Engineering Association, and also worked as an instructional assistant in the Mechanical Engineering department. In addition, during the COVID-19 pandemic, Sarah taught virtual science lessons to children with special needs.

Sarah plans to graduate in May and will join McKinsey & Company in Chicago as a product development and procurement fellow. Her speech is dedicated to her father, Kevan Kreitman, who passed away unexpectedly last March. He was her biggest role model and is greatly missed.

Amy Ku’uleialoha Stillman

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor
Professor of American Culture, College of Literature, Science, and the Arts
Professor of Musicology, School of Music, Theatre & Dance
Director, Native American Studies

Amy Ku’uleialoha Stillman, named an Arthur F. Thurnau Professor in 2022, is professor of American culture and musicology at University of Michigan. She directs Native American Studies and is also past director of Asian/Pacific Islander American Studies. A two-time GRAMMY Award winner, she also is a world authority on the Native Hawaiian hula, a dance tradition that shares stories and expresses ties to the natural world through movement.

Dr. Stillman earned bachelor degrees in music composition and Hawaiian Studies and a master’s degree in ethnomusicology at University of Hawai’i at Mānoa, and her doctorate in musicology at Harvard University. In 1998, she joined the U-M faculty. A popular teacher, she weaves cultural performance, media representations and indigenous music into her courses and draws students from STEM disciplines as well as arts and humanities.

Dr. Stillman is author of Sacred Hula: The Historical Hula ‘Āla’apapa as well as articles on the history of Hawaiian music and hula. Her writings have appeared in scholarly journals such as American Quarterly, Ethnomusicology, Hawaiian Journal of History and Journal of American Folklore. She has served as reviewer and consultant to national arts organizations, and curated, among others, a series of four mass concerts and CDs with Kūlia i ka Pūnāwai (the Kumu Hula Association of Southern California). Of the three CDs she co-produced as songwriter and lyricist, two were heralded with GRAMMY awards in 2008 and 2010, respectively, for Best Hawaiian Album.

RHODES, MARSHALL, AND CHURCHILL SCHOLARSHIPS

Rhodes, Marshall, and Churchill Scholarships are among the world's most prestigious academic awards for graduate students. Since the estate of British philanthropist Cecil John Rhodes established Rhodes Scholarships in 1904, dozens of University of Michigan alumni have studied as Rhodes Scholars at Oxford University. Thirty-two Americans are named Rhodes Scholars each year.

Marshall Scholarships, founded by an Act of Parliament in 1953, finance opportunities for young American scholars of high ability to study in the United Kingdom. The scholarship commemorates the humane ideals of the European Recovery Program (Marshall Plan) and funds one or two years of study. Thirty-one Marshall Scholarships are awarded annually to American students who demonstrate potential to excel as scholars, as leaders, and as contributors to improved UK-US understanding.

The Churchill Scholarship started in 1963 with three awards and has since grown to 14. It provides funding to American students for a year of Master's study in science, mathematics, and engineering at the University of Cambridge, based at Churchill College. The scholarship was set up at the request of Sir Winston Churchill in order to fulfill his vision of US-UK scientific exchange with the goal of advancing science and technology on both sides of the Atlantic, helping to ensure our future prosperity and security. The Churchill Scholarship has been called the most academically challenging of the UK scholarships. Over the years, several students from Michigan have been named Churchill Scholars.

We proudly recognize the following students who were endorsed by the University of Michigan this year:

Adam Bressler Ford School of Public Policy	Rhodes Nominee
Nicholas Cemalovich College of Pharmacy	Churchill Nominee; Marshall Nominee
Henry Fleischmann College of Literature, Science, and the Arts	Churchill Scholar; Marshall Alternate, Rhodes Finalist

RAOUL WALLENBERG FELLOWSHIP

Inspired by the spirit of Raoul Wallenberg, the Wallenberg Fellowship is awarded in the spring of each year to a graduating senior of exceptional promise and accomplishment who is committed to service and the public good. The fellowship provides $25,000 to carry out an independent project of learning or exploration anywhere in the world during the year after graduation. The Fellow will engage in a self-designed and self-directed area of exploration or project of experiential learning. Through an active and immersive year-long experience, and by connecting in meaningful ways with the lives of other people and communities, the Wallenberg Fellow will prepare to make a difference in the world.

The Fellowship honors Raoul Wallenberg (B.S. Arch. '35), one of the most illustrious graduates of the University of Michigan. At U-M, Wallenberg was recognized for the excellence of his academic work, his eagerness for knowledge of the world and for understanding others, and for his intrepid independence and resourcefulness. He left Ann Arbor resolved to be actively engaged in life. Ten years later, as a Swedish diplomat during World War II, Wallenberg coordinated the rescue of tens of thousands of Jews in Budapest. He disappeared after he was arrested by Soviet authorities. One of the great heroes of the 20th century, Raoul Wallenberg shows that even under the most daunting circumstances, one person can make a difference.

The University of Michigan would like to express its deep appreciation to U-M parents Jon and Lili Bosse and U-M alumnus Bert Askwith (B.A. '31). Jon and Lili Bosse's generous gift initiated the Wallenberg Fellowship in 2013. In 2014, Bert Askwith generously created the Mary Sue Coleman Endowed Fund for the Raoul Wallenberg Fellowship to support future generations of Michigan students who are inspired by Wallenberg's legacy, and to honor President Coleman's leadership during her tenure at U-M.

The Raoul Wallenberg Fellowship recipient this year is:

2023 THURNAU PROFESSORS

The Thurnau Professorships were established in 1988 to recognize and reward faculty for outstanding contributions to undergraduate education. The professorships honor tenured faculty members who, through their commitment and investment in undergraduate teaching, have had a positive impact on the intellectual development and lives of students.

Arthur F. Thurnau, for whom the Thurnau Professorship is named, attended the University of Michigan from fall of 1902 until spring of 1904. He studied a liberal arts curriculum, but he did not graduate. This was not uncommon for the time, and although his three brothers also attended the University of Michigan, only one of them graduated. In his two years here, Arthur completed 58 credits of French, German, history, English, rhetoric, politics, and economics. He also was a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity and sang in the Freshmen Glee Club.

Arthur later returned to Chicago, and worked as an “ad man,” selling advertising space in various magazines and newspapers. In this role, he eventually rose to the position of vice president and western manager for the firm Paul Block, Inc. He was actively involved in U-M alumni events in Chicago, even trying to arrange a football game between the Wolverines and the University of Chicago Maroons during that period of time when Chicago was part of the Big Ten Conference and Michigan was not. He also put his organizational talents to work during World War II by creating events to encourage the sale of government bonds.

Arthur Thurnau's generosity to the University of Michigan began in 1966, and continued through the rest of his life. Upon his death in 1979, his estate created the Thurnau Charitable Trust to support the University of Michigan. Since 1988, these funds have been used to support the Thurnau Professorships. Thurnau Professors receive $20,000 grants to support activities that enhance teaching. It is this important recognition for faculty that Arthur F. Thurnau so generously provided for and that the University of Michigan celebrates. The University is pleased to recognize this year's Thurnau Professors.

Stephen Berrey

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Associate Professor of American Culture; Associate Professor of History
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Professor Berrey embodies what it means to be an inclusive and impactful leader in higher education in the eyes of both students and peers. His courses—such as “The Politics and Cultures of the ‘Sixties,’” “Say It Loud: Black Culture in America,” and “The American South, a History of Race and Culture Since Reconstruction”—are always original and rigorous, carefully guiding students through historical and current struggles around racial injustice. He cultivates a diverse and close-knit environment in which he encourages collaboration and connection among students. He engages them with “hard histories,” building opportunities for students to create and participate actively in scholarly research through his UM History Lab, “Race, Local History, and Sundown Towns in the United States.” Students contribute their findings to an affiliated website that has become a resource for teachers at all levels, receiving over one million hits in the past two years. Professor Berrey also serves as a pedagogical model for incoming faculty, and he was a key resource for colleagues during the shift to emergency remote teaching. He worked with eleven “digital teaching fellows” to develop best pedagogical practices and ultimately produced a series of guides and models for teaching history remotely. The resulting resources were used by faculty in the history department and beyond. A passionate, student-centered educator, Professor Berrey’s contributions have had significant impact on individual students and the curriculum more broadly.

Gregory J. Dick

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of Earth and Environmental Sciences; Professor of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts
Professor of Environment and Sustainability
School for Environment and Sustainability

Professor Dick’s award-winning teaching and deep engagement with outreach and programming have created profound change in the department and discipline of earth and environmental sciences. He has enlarged pipelines for high school students with his Earth Camp program and summer coursework for Wolverine Pathways. Further support for pipeline students after their transition to UM includes development of new courses for the Comprehensive Studies Program. Professor Dick brings the relevance of the geosciences home to students when he exposes them to real-world problems like the disproportionate impact of environmental issues on minority communities and by giving examples of career pathways in geosciences. When he sensed a lack of communication between undergraduate majors and faculty, he volunteered to become the first faculty advisor to the GeoClub student organization and quickly improved the department’s relationship with its students. All these efforts have increased the accessibility and appeal of the field, directly contributing to nearly doubling the number of historically underrepresented students over the past five years. Professor Dick has received numerous awards for his teaching prowess, and he is also committed to ensuring that his colleagues are able to deliver their best possible instruction as well. After the COVID-19 pandemic hit UM, Professor Dick became his department’s go-to person for help with instructional matters. As a classroom teacher, associate chair, and undergraduate mentor, he has provided transformative leadership to cultivate a more societally-relevant, diverse, and inclusive space.

Gary W. Harper

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of Health Behavior and Health Education; Professor of Global Public Health
School of Public Health

Professor Harper played a central role in designing and implementing the School of Public Health's first undergraduate degree program. He chaired the task force that developed the proposal for the program and rallied colleagues from all six departments within the school to unanimously approve the new degree. The effort he led also required significant curriculum development, including visioning of multiple degree tracks and courses relevant to those tracks. The resulting program is the fastest growing in the school, and it is only one testament to his commitment to teaching. Professor Harper is a co-principal investigator for Student Opportunities for AIDS/HIV Research (SOAR), the only pipeline program of its kind in the US, which provides a robust training environment for undergraduate students from underrepresented groups who are interested in research careers in this area. SOAR is also an exemplar of campus collaboration across the schools of public health, nursing, and social work, the Institute for Research on Women and Gender, and multiple departments in LSA. His model for Trauma-Informed Education for teaching during the pandemic has been shared widely with faculty at UM and nationally. His student-centered approach and passion for teaching allow for deep learning as well as student enjoyment in his courses, lab, and programs. Students describe Professor Harper as a great mentor who cares deeply about his students as people and their lives as a whole.

Lisa H. Harris, M.D., Ph.D.

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

F. Wallace and Janet Jeffries Collegiate Professor of Reproductive Health; Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology
Medical School
Professor of Women's and Gender Studies
College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Dr. Harris has significantly influenced the thinking of a generation of Michigan students about gender, women's bodies, women's health, and the social and medical milieu in which women's reproductive issues are situated. Her work has garnered teaching awards and both national and international recognition. She is a physician scientist with a Ph.D. in American culture, and students respect her clinical perspectives and balanced, nuanced insights into the socio-cultural impact of women's health care. Dr. Harris currently concentrates her efforts on building a more diverse medical workforce and supporting future doctors in their education. In courses like the heavily enrolled WS400, Women's Reproductive Health, and as the director of the Health Sciences Scholar Program, she demonstrates ways of merging clinical practice and advocacy with community-based work. She has identified new and engaging ways to introduce students early in their college careers to the health science disciplines through experiential learning and exposure to nationally known campus practitioners and leaders in the field. By inviting speakers from her network to share their practice and research, she provides students with different perspectives on topics like disparities in maternal mortality, prenatal care, and transgender health, creating what one student called a holistic lens that transcends the purely clinical. The teaching of students that begins in these settings often turns into a lifelong mentorship relationship that serves students as they move on to healthcare careers.

Sally Oey

Arthur F. Thurnau Professor

Professor of Astronomy

College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Professor Oey's ability to broaden access to the technical field of astrophysics for undergraduates at both the introductory and advanced level has enriched the department's curriculum, enhancing and enabling student success. She was instrumental in quadrupling the number of undergraduate majors and minors in astronomy over the past decade, making the department a national leader. She championed new Interdisciplinary Astronomy pathways that draw students who are planning careers in such fields as journalism, science policy, business, law, and art. As an LGBTQ+ woman of color in STEM, Professor Oey has worked to incorporate DEI in all her activities. This includes highlighting the contributions of diverse scientists to fundamental astronomical discoveries, the underappreciated diversity of constellation stories, and the implications of building scientific observatories on native lands. As one student wrote, "Listening to Professor Oey connect culture, land and science made astronomy real for us in a way no other professor had." As a result, her students connect science to broader societal contexts. After participating in her immersive class at the Kitt Observatory in Arizona and seeing the Milky Way for the first time, students in her Astron 461 catalyzed a coalition of students, faculty, and alumni to lobby successfully for an ordinance to reduce light pollution in Ann Arbor. As one student notes, Professor Oey "tenaciously helps you to unearth your potential and ultimately leaves you with an experience of which you can be proud and build upon."

ACADEMIC DRESS AND CUSTOM

The colorful gowns and hoods worn by faculty members at commencement and other academic ceremonies represent the degrees, disciplines, and alma maters of the wearers. The American academic costume tradition, imported from England, dates to Colonial days.

Gowns

Bachelor's or master's degree gowns traditionally are black, as are many doctoral gowns in the United States. Some universities prescribe that their graduates wear gowns of another solid color such as blue, crimson, or green. Gowns differ in sleeve cut and trim. For example, the bachelor's gown has long, pointed sleeves while the master's gown has oblong sleeves. Doctoral gowns, with their distinctive bell-shaped sleeves, feature velvet panels down the front and around the neck, as well as crossbars of velvet on the sleeves. Colored trim denotes the field or discipline in which the degree was earned. Usually only a single degree from one institution is indicated by a garment. If more than one degree is held, the gown and hood of the higher or highest degree usually are worn.

Hoods

The hood most precisely describes the wearer's level of degree earned, the major field of learning, and the alma mater. The level of the degree held is indicated by the hood's shape and size and the width of its velvet or velveteen trimming. The bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are 36 inches, 42 inches, and 48 inches long, respectively. The velvet trim is two, three, and five inches wide, with the narrowest being for the bachelor's hood and the widest for the doctor's hood. The color of trim on the hood, as on the gown, identifies the major field of learning in which the degree was awarded. The hood is lined with the official colors of the college or university conferring the degree.

Caps

Caps vary in style from the traditional black mortarboard to eight-, six-, and four-corner tams, and Elizabethan-style caps. The mortarboard may be of any appropriate material, such as cotton, poplin, rayon, or silk, to match the gown. Velvet is reserved for holders of doctorates.

THE UNIVERSITY MACE

The University's mace is a symbol of academic scholarship, integrity, and authority. It is carried by the chair of the University Senate at the head of academic processions on such important ceremonial occasions as commencements, convocations, and inaugurations, representing the connection of all faculty members to important academic rituals. The mace being used today was given to the University in 1968 by the Senior Board, representing all the undergraduate schools and colleges. Crafted of red oak and trimmed with silver, the mace features the seals of the University and of the State of Michigan. Also engraved on the mace are the names of the University Presidents.
